

ABOVE The casual seating area at the end of the island can be used in myriad ways.

Functional elements

The kitchen hosts a unique yet striking design that is as functional as it is impressive

WHEN IT CAME TIME to designing a kitchen to fit in with their new home, the owners were free to build exactly what they wanted — an "epicurean's delight". The open-plan living zone meant there were no boundaries or restrictions they needed to work with or around.

The result? It's the ultimate work space for the passionate home chef, combining clean lines with innovative design and integrated appliances.

The stunning finish of the Caesarstone benchtops and sleek carbon black cabinets make a bold statement within a spacious kitchen. The absence of overhead cabinets and generous work space allows for maximum light to fill the area, balancing the dark tones.

Designed mostly by the owners themselves, the brief took note of their passion for cooking and entertaining. A freestanding Falcon cooker sits in the heart of the kitchen, boasting an impressive 138L of cooking space and a six-burner cooktop. The cooker proves its versatility within an industrial-style environment. Matching the stainless-steel handles and black finishes throughout, the chrome accent cooker is a standalone feature behind the abundant work space and breakfast bar.

A clever utilisation of space has allowed for a large scullery. Complete with a 90cm dishwasher to accommodate oversized platters, the scullery is also fitted with an additional sink and ample storage. The ultimate in functional design, the scullery takes hold of the kitchen clutter, allowing the much larger and central chef's haven to appear more refined. In keeping with the seamless design, the star feature of the kitchen is cleverly integrated within the cabinetry. Only the ice and water dispenser gives indication as to what lies behind the grand Style-Lite Carbon doors. The Miele MasterCool fridge and freezer allow complete control over the humidity and precise temperature of its four independent cooling zones. Fruit, vegetables, dairy and meat are kept in different cooling environments, optimising freshness and reducing air exchange between the areas, ensuring odours won't work their way into other foods. Miele is setting new standards in refrigeration, with its unrivalled combination of international design, innovative features and impressive user convenience.

The overall impression is exquisite and a result of clever planning of functional elements and contemporary conveniences.

fact file

The kitchen features appliances from BRISBANE APPLIANCE SALES 171 Enoggera Road, Newmarket Qld 4051 PHONE (07) 3356 8088 WEBSITE www.brisbaneappliance.com; The project is managed and built by CIS Property Development APPLIANCES: REFRIGERATOR Miele MasterCool fully integrated fridge FREEZER Miele MasterCool fully integrated freezer OVEN Falcon Black and Chrome 110cm cooker RANGEHOOD/CANOPY Falcon 110cm canopy DISHWASHER Two Fisher & Paykel DishDrawers SINKS Abey sinks BENCHTOP Caesarstone 'Night Sky' CABINETRY Style-Lite Carbon SPLASHBACK Style-Lite Carbon

